

Dr Hadi Saleh is a physician specialising in preventive medicine and advanced preventive diagnostics. At his private practice in Berlin and through Nexus Precision Diagnostics, he combines medical expertise with data-driven diagnostics, artificial intelligence and a highly personalised approach to prevention.

As the author of Mission Gesundheit and host of the podcast of the same name, he advocates a form of medicine that aims to prevent disease before it develops. His areas of expertise include prevention, longevity, healthcare innovation and personalised medicine.